

World Soil Day celebration

“Soils: Where food begins”

5 December 2022

ICAR-National Research Centre on Seed Spices, Ajmer celebrated “World Soil Day” on 5 December. World Soil Day 2022 and its campaign "Soils: Where food begins" aims to raise awareness of the importance of maintaining healthy ecosystems and human well-being. Dr S N Saxena, Director, ICAR-NRCSS, Ajmer graced the occasion as Chief Guest. On this occasion, Isha foundation volunteers presented a programme on the 'Save Soil Movement'. At the outset, the Director wished the gathering on World Soil Day and appreciated the ‘Save Soil Movement’. He urged that at a time when the nation is taking new pledges during the Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav, such movements acquire a new importance. He also discussed the significance of healthy soil and advocated for the sustainable management of soil resources. Dr Chetan Kumar Jangir, (Soil Scientist) highlighted importance of soil biodiversity and management of soil for healthy food. Dr. M D Meena briefed the audience on the Institute's work and efforts toward soil management, as well as the Institute's long relationship with farmers.

Glimpse of World Soil Day, 2022@ ICAR-NRCSS, Ajmer